S. Main's Trees; Washington's Eye on 'Possum Trot'

Hope is a tree-studded city, thanks to the vision of a past generation who did a monumental planting job. Now it's up to this generation to replace immediately the trees killed during the widening of S. Main St.

We're not sure whether the cost is chargeable to the City of Hope or will have to be absorbed by the property owners. The city controls the area between the street curb and sidewalk, therefore it couldn't be held liable for trees that have died in the public domain. But trees that have died in the area between sidewalk and residence may pose a charge against the city.

Whatever the legal aspects, this is a crisis that calls for group action so that young trees may be set out this winter. A committee of S. Main St. property owners should be named to manage the replanting jobs in one contract, which should be the cheapest method. If such a committee is organized and property owners can not get help from the city then this newspaper will make a contribution.

Whether the city pays or does not pay the replanting program should be worked through city channels, private payments, if any, being made to the city. Such payments to local government should be tax deductible, whereas an outlay by an individual on his own property can not be deducted from income tax return.

The impending stoppage of steam-powered trains on the "Possum Trot Line" from Reader to Waterloo continues to make news.

Following is a letter from George W. Peck, Texarkana, president of the Pioneer Washington Foundation, to the president of the "Possum Trot Line," with a copy to James H. Pilkinton, Hope, past president of the Washington organization.

Mr. T. W. M. Long, President
Possum Trot Line
819 Robinson Place
Shreveport, Louisiana

Dear Mr. Long: I have read with interest of your closing down of the Possum Trot Rail line and disposing of the equipment. I, along with many other railroad buffs, hate to see this line closed, but we realize that it is not economically feasible for you to continue its operation.

I am president of the Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation, which was organized 15 years ago for the purpose of restoring old Washington, Arkansas, with which I am sure you are familiar. We are in the negotiation stages with the State Park System of Arkansas to take over Pioneer Washington and operate it as a State Park. I have had a call from Mr. Flave Carpenter, director of the State Parks Commission, who is also manager of the Arkadelphia Chamber of Commerce, calling my attention to the fact that it would be a wonderful thing if we could acquire the engine, not the rails, just the rolling stock, and originate a trip at Hope, Ark., on I-30, to Washington, which is a distance of nine miles.

Mr. Long, we are giving this serious consideration, and would certainly appreciate discussing the sale with you. Sincerely yours,

GEORGE W. PECK
President, Pioneer Washington Restoration Foundation

Is Stans connected to bugging of Demos?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for the Democratic party try again today to file allegations that former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans played a key role in the bugging and burglarizing of Democratic National Committee offices last June.

The charges are contained in an amended complaint to the civil invasion-of-privacy suit filed by the Democratic National Committee and Lawrence F. O'Brien, its former chairman.

But when attorneys tried to file the complaint Monday, the clerk refused to accept it because it was not accompanied by a motion asking U.S. Dist. Court Judge Charles Richey's permission to amend the original filing.

The new complaint alleges that Stans, now finance chairman of the Committee for the Re-Election of the President, and Hugh Sloan, former committee treasurer, gave $114,000 in unreported Republican campaign funds last April 11, to G. Gordon Liddy, a former White House and GOP campaign aide, to finance the activities of the men charged with breaking into the Democratic party offices.

The complaint named Liddy, E. Howard Hunt Jr., formerly employed as a consultant by the White House, and James W. McCord, former security chief for the presidential campaign committee, as "commanding personnel" of what it called the "political espionage squad."

Clark MacGregor, President Nixon's campaign chairman, said the charges against Stans and Sloan would be "grossly libelous" if made outside a court complaint. He said he has directed attorneys to file civil suit against O'Brien and the Democrats for "malicious prosecution and abuse of process."

"The allegations are false and Mr. O'Brien and his friends are well aware they all are false," said MacGregor.

Stans called the accusations "a scurrilous pack of lies."

MacGregor called on Sen. George McGovern, Democratic presidential candidate, to disclose who on the Republican campaign payroll has fed information to the Democrats.

MacGregor referred to news reports that information in the amended complaint giving details of the alleged bugging of Democratic party telephones had come from a participant in the activities.

Steps to strengthen state's property assessment law proposed by group

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Steps were proposed Monday to strengthen the state's property assessment law and to provide more technical training for county assessors and their staffs.

The state Committee to Study Public School Finance and the Property Tax also recommended that timber be declared a crop, which would mean that it would no longer be subjected to assessment for valorem taxes each year.

The committee adopted eight recommendations presented by Richard W. Longing, director of the state Commerce Department.

Longing said some way had to be found to force counties to raise the assessments of all underappraised property to the legal level — 18 per cent — instead of only the 3 per cent of the property sampled by the state.

The state Assessment Coordination Division is supposed to sample assessments in each county every year and, based on those samples, publish the average assessment in the county. Five months later, any county falling under 18 per cent must have raised its assessments or face a loss in state turnback funds.

Longing said frequently assessors merely raised the assessments of the property sampled by the Assessment Coordination Division so that the second survey by the state showed that the county had complied with the law.

He suggested making the identity of the division's samples a secret, at least until the county had raised its assessments.

The committee adopted Longing's proposal that a search be made of ways to prevent counties from raising the assessments only on sampled property.

The committee also adopted his suggestion that counties not go below 19 per cent of the value in the annual ratios or above 21 per cent. Now, counties cannot fall below 18 per cent and there is no ceiling.

Timber is not generally treated as a crop by assessors. It is supposed to be appraised annually and as the timber grows its value for tax purposes is raised. Timber groups have insisted that it should be treated as a crop like anything else that is harvested periodically.

Other recommendations made by the committee were:

—Give the Assessment Coordination Division power to force county assessors to use uniform assessment forms and procedures.

—Ask the legislature to provide funds for assessors to hire trained deputies in every county.

—Provide technical training for assessors and county equalization boards every year.

—Give the division enough money to hire a staff to carry out the duties assigned by law.

—Turn the assessment of intangible personal property over to the state. The committee voted to search for ways to assess intangibles.

Typical American voter interviewed

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP)

— A 43-year-old Chicago area credit manager, picked as a typical "middle American" for a study of voting behavior, says he still doesn't know how he will vote after a rare, inside view of Sen. George McGovern's presidential campaign.

"To be frank," Richard J. Johnson said in an interview, "I'm still undecided at this point whether he'll get my vote in November." But he said his view of McGovern has gone up from a week of close watching.

Johnson was picked by the Public Broadcasting Corp.'s

National Public Affairs Center for Television (PACT) for a year-long study. He was first interviewed in January, when he described himself as a Democrat who might vote in November for President Nixon.

"I feel that he's done a commendable job," Johnson said at the time. But he added that if Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts won the Democratic nomination, he'd certainly vote for him.

Married and the father of four, Johnson lives in Rolling Meadows, Ill., drives 21 miles each day to his job with National Steel Service Center Inc. in Evanston and is concerned that his income of about $15,000, including his wife's part-time job, won't be enough to pay for his children's college education.

Last week, he arrived in Los Angeles to see the McGovern campaign first hand. Since Wednesday, he has seen the senator campaign there, in San Diego; in Dallas and Houston, Tex.; in Peoria and Rockford, Ill.; in Superior, Wis.; and in Des Moines, Iowa.

"It's been strenuous," Johnson conceded. "I'm tired at night, and I'm ready for the old sack, but what an experience."

Fighting is raging in Quang Tri City

QUANG TRI, Vietnam (AP) — South Vietnamese Marines fought their way into the Quang Tri Citadel today, but were encountering tough resistance. "It is still contested," one informant said.

One source estimated that about 400 North Vietnamese troops were still entrenched in the 19th century fortress whose political symbolism outweighs its military value in the battle of Quang Tri.

Contradictions noted in general's account of air strikes in VN

WASHINGTON (AP) — Air Force Gen. John D. Lavelle apparently has changed the nuances, if not the substance, of the story he is telling Congress about his role in unauthorized air strikes against North Vietnam.

Lavelle was called to testify before the Senate Armed Services Committee after disclosure of the unauthorized strikes led to his ouster as commander of the 7th U.S. Air Force in Vietnam. He returns to the closed-door session for continued questioning today.

After his initial testimony Monday, committee Chairman John Stennis D-Miss., quoted Lavelle this way:

"He has testified that he never knowingly disobeyed orders and guidance of authorities above him ... He has done no wrong as he sees it."

However, Lavelle told a House committee during public testimony in July:

"In certain instances, against high-priority targets, I made interpretations that were probably beyond the literal intention of the rules."

Stennis suggested that the apparent contradiction may be explained by the definition of "unauthorized strike." The

Farm Bureau leaders met

The Hempstead County Farm Bureau leaders met Sept. 7, to discuss farm and related affairs preparatory to this fall's county, state and national Farm Bureau policy development.

State issues receiving primary emphasis were taxation, roads, environment control, research needs and regulatory agencies. National affairs stressed were revenue sharing, trade, farm labor legislation, marketing and bargaining legislation and commodity programs.

County Farm Bureau President Wayne Attebury announced that Ralph Montgomery of near Hope, is chairman of the organization's resolutions committee which is responsible for recommending policy statements to the county Farm Bureau convention that will be held next month.

Other members of his committee are: Irvin Burke, Cecil Bittle, David Cummings, Troy Burson, Calvin Caldwell and Warren Pyler.

Policy is updated annually at county, state, and national levels, concluding with the American Farm Bureau convention, which this year will be held Dec. 10-14 at Los Angeles, Calif.

Letter of gratitude sent to blood donors

The Arkansas Blood Center in Little Rock has sent a letter of gratitude to the people of Hempstead County for their "excellent response" to the bloodmobile visit of Aug. 28-29, according to Haskell Jones, county blood drive chairman. Jones expressed his thanks to all 225 who came to give; 203 pints were obtained, he said.

He also expressed his gratitude to the volunteer workers from the Farm Bureau Women, B&PW Club, Junior Auxiliary, First Presbyterian Church Women, volunteer nurses recruited by Mrs. Bob Turner, students of Red River Vocational-Technical School, Kiwanis Club, Lions Club, Optimist Club, Rotary Club, and the First Presbyterian Church for use of its facilities.

The next visit of the bloodmobile will be Dec. 4-5, Jones said.

side the city and several smaller gun batteries to the south.

Officers at the front said the marines outside the Citadel's walls were closing off the enemy's avenues of supply and reinforcement.

"We are beginning to box them in," said one. "The enemy are in a bad way. They have been trying like hell to reinforce their troops in the Citadel but we are cutting them down before they get in."

The North Vietnamese captured Quang Tri on May 1, completing their conquest of North Vietnam's northernmost province. The South Vietnamese launched a counter-offensive on June 28.

A South Vietnamese spokesman in Saigon said the marines entered the Citadel through a bomb hole in the southern wall after clearing out North Vietnamese bunkers just outside. He reported that other marine units were attacking the Citadel from the north, the east and the south.

Officers in Quang Tri reported that many North Vietnamese were surrendering without a fight. One reportedly said he had joined the North Vietnamese army only seven weeks ago and had been rushed to Quang Tri front with hardly any training.

Marine casualties in the fighting were described as "moderate," and one officer conceded: "We have also been taking some knocks."

In the air war against North Vietnam, U.S. fighter-bombers cut both the northeast and northwest rail lines to China again, destroyed more than 20 boxcars loaded with supplies and wrecked 45 buildings in a big barracks complex, the 7th Air Force said. The raids ranged from 60 miles northeast of Hanoi to 120 miles northwest, and the closest to the Chinese border were within 30 miles, More than 300 air strikes were flown.

Soldier kidnaps soldiers

SAIGON (AP) — A young American soldier surrendered to military authorities today after abducting four other soldiers and holding up with one of them in a house on Saigon's outskirts.

Pvt. Lawrence R. Tanner, 20, of Orange, Tex., gave up when military police fired tear gas into the house after a brief exchange of shots in which one of the security officers was slightly wounded, the U.S. Command said.

The soldier's intentions were not clear but members of his unit, a helicopter company, said he "indicated that he wanted to leave the country."

Officials said he had armed himself with an M16 rifle and a pistol, then put his four hostages in a jeep and drove them the 12 miles from their base at Long Binh to Saigon.

Arriving in Saigon, he freed three of the hostages, abandoned the jeep and hired a taxi to take him and the fourth hostage to the house near the U.S. Army Hospital and Tan Son Nhut Air Base, the Command said.

Command spokesmen said the hostages were 1st Lt. Lonnie E. Weck, 25, of Bardonia, N.Y.; 1st Sgt. John F. Johnson, 45, of Floodwood, Minn.; Spec. 4 Earl Tilley, 19, of Bristol, Vt.; and Pfc. Steven W. Anderson, 21, of San Leandro, Calif. None were hurt.

Anderson was the hostage who accompanied Tanner to the house, the Command said.

Harris said that the Klan had hired "professional polygraph men" to give tests in Alabama last year, but that "the FBI threatened to pull their licenses if they gave tests to Klan people."

"The whole federal system is our enemy," he said. "There is no democracy or freedom of the people."

Court upholds conviction

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Supreme Court ruled Monday there was no "sound reason" why a peace officer should be subjected to indignities that far exceed what any other person might reasonably be expected to endure.

Associate Justice John A. Fogleman made the statement in upholding the conviction of James Meyers Jr., 21, of Dumas, who was convicted in Municipal Court of resisting arrest, disturbing the peace and drunkenness in Little Rock Aug. 8, 1971.

In appealing, Meyers contended that the evidence did not support a breach of the peace conviction and that Circuit Court Judge William J. Kirby, ruling on appeal from Municipal Court, erred by applying the resisting arrest violation in the case since the arresting officer was an off-duty policeman.

The officer, Patrolman Mike Carter, was working at the time as a motel security guard. The record said that after repeatedly warning Meyers and some of his associates to stay off a motel balcony, Carter heard Meyers shouting obscenities and "pigs" in the room. The arrest followed.

MRS. WILLIAM CUMMINGS BYERS

Miss Knight, Mr. Byers wed in Baptist rites

Jane Phena Knight, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Knight of Gould, became the bride of William Cummings Byers in a double ring ceremony Aug. 19, at Landmark Baptist Church in Gould. Reverend Jackie Holt and Reverend Jim Smith officiated.

The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. O.O. Byers of Hope.

The bride is a graduate of Southeast Academy in Gould and is a junior at the University of Arkansas in Fayetteville. She plans to continue her studies at the university in the fall.

Mr. Byers is a graduate of Hope High School and the University at Fayetteville. He is an endorsed missionary to the academic community at Fayetteville, where he is involved in a teaching and counseling ministry.

The church was decorated with two seven branch candelabra holding green tapers. White gladioli, white chrysanthemums and jade leaves adorned the altar. A Unity candle was used as a focal point.

Mrs. Phillip Bitely of Grady was organist and Rita Knight of Gould was soloist. Both are cousins of the bride. Christi Lea Proctor of North Little Rock, niece of the bride, was flower girl. Mysti Lynn Proctor of North Little Rock, niece of the bride and Alan Bohannon of Hope, nephew of the bridegroom were candelighters.

Escorted by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of peau de soie featuring a Victorian neckline. The skirt was appliqued and trimmed in seed pearls. The dress featured a detachable Chapel train. Her shoulder length veil of imported silk illusion was held by a band of silk staphanotis and seed pearls. She carried a white prayer book with a cluster of white orchids, fern leaves and white bridal satin ribbon. Tiny strings of pearl roping flowed from the center of the orchids. She wore a pearl necklace.

The bride's sister, Mrs. James A. Proctor of North Little Rock, served as matron of honor. She wore a mint green whipped creme dress accented with pearl buttons. Her headpiece was a mint green straw hat. She carried a tiny white lace nosegay made of white and yellow mums with green maline and yellow satin leaves and streamers of green ribbons.

Bridesmaids were Miss Knight and Chris Scott of Springfield, Missouri. They wore dresses of green dotted swiss made identically to the matron of honor's.

Russell Kelley of Fayetteville was best man. Ushers were Mark Hollingsworth and David Willis of Fayetteville and Charles Carozza of Hope.

Groomsmen were Wayne Norvell of Gladewater, Texas and Dean Goodman of Stuttgart.

A reception was held after the ceremony in the fellowship room of the church. Sally Carder of Prattville and Ramona Gasaway of Gould served in the house party. Mrs. Jim Smith of Gould kept the bride's book. Mysti and Christ Proctor and Marsha Grimes distributed rice bags.

After a brief trip to Hot Springs, the couple will be at home in Fayetteville.

Helen Help Us!

HELEN BOTTEL

Mirror, Mirror on the Wall... DEAR HELEN:

We have a problem with Terry, our girl friend: she thinks she's skinny but her stomach hangs over her pants and her hips are too big for short-shorts. What she does to a mini skirt is ridiculous. She insists her waist is 24 but it's more like 31!

When we walk down the street she thinks people are looking at her because she has a good figure, but they're really staring at her poor taste.

Should we tell her, drop her, or just keep on being—THE EMBARRASSED TWO DEAR EMB:

If you're good enough friends, you can be truthful but tactful. Let Terry know this kind of ego only weighs you down, and she's fooling nobody but herself.

Sometimes a girl's mirror tells her only what she wants to see, and it takes PEOPLE to make her see what she really is.—SUE

DEAR EMBARRASSED: Pointing out a girl's faults "for her own good" is risky business—unless yours is the special kind of friendship that can survive truthful hurts. (And somehow I don't think it is.) My I.G.A.P. ("I'm Guessing Again Perception") tells me you'd just as soon change this threesome to a twosome, and you're using "embarrassment" to justify it.—HELEN

DEAR RAP:

I am a 14-year-old guy, and getting high grades in school has never been a problem. But I don't do well athletically.

Now the kids who don't do well scholastically are treated just fine by the school system, which makes sure that they are developed to their full potential. They are put into separate groups consisting of underachievers like themselves, so their precious egos won't be damaged. They are coddled, protected, given sympathy, and shielded from would-be verbal assailants.

Now let us consider how I am treated. As an "underachiever" in athletic ability, have I had the special attention given to my scholastic counterparts? No! I have been put in with everyone else who is almost certainly more able than I am at any sport. As a result, I have been laughed at, mocked out, and given patronizing looks from ignorant gym teachers.

Contrary to what you are probably thinking, I am not a scrawny little weak runt with bifocals. I am six feet tall, and have no problem coordinating my body movements. I certainly have potential. It is the same potential of the stupid kid who isn't really stupid. The only difference is that his potential is helped to develop and mine is painfully ignored.—MARTIN

DEAR MARTIN:

Thanks for making a good point. Physical fitness is great, but too often gym classes can be total PAIN for "underachievers."

Comments anyone? We'd like to hear from gym teachers as well as students.—HELEN AND SUE (GOT A PROBLEM? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel—or both, in care of this newspaper, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer.)

Homemakers Club meets Tuesday

On September 8 the Victory Extension Homemakers Club met in the home of the president, Mrs. Cecil Smith, with 10 members and 4 children present. After Mrs. Smith had called the meeting to order, she gave a devotional message based on John 11:1-44. Mrs. Eunie Calhoun led in prayer.

Mrs. Smith read a poem, "The Question," which further emphasized the thought of the devotion. Members answered the roll call with "Problems I Have with Caring for My Range." After the meeting, two members received birthday gifts from their Secret Pals. Mrs. C.J. Rowe won the thrift package.

Cookies, nuts, chips and frosted punch were served. The next meeting will be with Mrs. Eugene Collums on October 4.

Ladies host luncheon for Mrs. Larry Moore

Mrs. Frank McLarty and Mrs. Mack McLarty were hostesses for a luncheon at the Texarkana Country Club in honor of a recent bride, Mrs. Larry Mitchell Moore, the former Dean Dee Dixon.

The luncheon table was centered with a silver bowl filled with blue carnations and mixed yellow flowers. Two smaller arrangements of the same design complimented the center-piece. A salad and sandwich plate carried out the blue and yellow color scheme. Bridal place cards marked the places for twenty-eight guests from Hope, Texarkana, Little Rock, and Stamps. Guests included the bride's mother, Mrs. Jack Dixon, her grandmother, Mrs. Ira Fussell of Columbus, Tex., and the groom's mother, Mrs. Donald Moore.

The honoree was attired in a yellow and white summer print dress and pinned an orchid corsage at her shoulder. Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Moore also wore an orchid.

The hostesses presented the honoree with a place setting in her chosen silver pattern.

Pennant chase gets wackier

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
Baseball is going through its annual September Song and as the days dwindle down to a precious few, the chase for the American League East pennant gets whackier and whackier.

Front-running Boston, for example, had its lead trimmed to one-half game by losing to Cleveland 6-5 Monday night on a sacrifice fly that turned into a double play. And Baltimore closed the gap with a 3-2 victory over Milwaukee, thanks to a friendly foul pole that turned a potential home run into a long strike.

Cleveland's winning run against the Red Sox came on a sacrifice fly that outfielder Ben Oglivie dropped and then cleverly turned into a double play.

The DP erased what would have been an error for the rookie outfielder, but the fly ball got home the run that beat Boston.

Meanwhile, Baltimore used Boog Powell's first home run in more than three weeks to trip Milwaukee. But the Birds had a ninth inning scare as pinch hitter Joe Lahoud crashed a two-out shot into the right field bleachers barely foul. A few feet the other way, and the Orioles would have been on the short end of the score.

The other AL East contenders splashed through 5½ innings before the rain took over and the Yankees beat the Tigers 4-2. The victory moved New York into third place, 1½ games behind Boston. Detroit slipped to fourth, two games off the Red Sox' pace.

In the AL West, Chicago moved to within two games of Oakland by beating Kansas City 2-1 while the A's were losing a doubleheader to Minnesota, 2-1 and 3-2. Texas and California weren't scheduled. Only three National League games were played Monday night. The New York Mets trimmed Philadelphia and Steve Carlton, 4-2, Montreal shut out St. Louis 4-0 and Houston topped Los Angeles 4-3.

The Red Sox flexed their muscles with home runs by Carl Yastrzemski, Reggie Smith, Carlton Fisk and even relief pitcher Bill Lee while Jack Brohamer and Tom McCraw connected for the Indians.

The score was 5-5 in the sixth following Lee's homer when the Indians scored the deciding run. Cleveland loaded the bases on Buddy Bell's single, a hit batsman, a sacrifice and an intentional walk. Then Roy Fos-

Trevino to play at Hot Springs

HOT SPRINGS VILLAGE, Ark.—Arnold Palmer added charisma to professional golf, Jack Nicklaus has become a legend in his own time—but nothing has excited the golfing world more than the recent "rags to riches" story of the man—Lee Trevino.

Named PGA's "Golfer-of-the-Year" in 1971 and a two-time British Open champion, Trevino has rolicked his way to fairway immortality in a manner that has captured the hearts of golfers throughout the world. His latest conquest, the 12th in official PGA tournament play, came last weekend with a sudden-victory win at the Greater Hartford Open.

Now in a gesture typically Trevino, he's coming to Arkansas in a charity exhibition and clinic with all of the proceeds going to the Southwest Rehabilitation Center for the Blind at Little Rock and the Lions International Foundation for the Blind. The event is a Lions Celebrity Golf Exhibition scheduled for the beautiful DeSoto Golf Course at Hot Springs Village on Monday, September 18.

The man affectionately called "Super Mex" hasn't forgotten what it's like to need a friend—and he's added to his stature with charity exhibitions and contributions throughout his meteoric rise.

Tickets for the Lions Exhibition (18-holes) and Clinic are priced at $5.00, and may be purchased by mail. Checks should be made payable to Lions Golf Classic and mailed to Hot Springs Village, Box 1600, Hot Springs, Ark.

Bobcats lose opener

By ALAN FOSTER
Star Sports Writer

Last night at Hammons Stadium the Hope B-team suffered defeat on their season opener at the hands of Magnolia by a score of 18-0.

Hope was held scoreless throughout the game by a sound Magnolia defense and just as the Panthers are the power in 7 AA they could also be trouble in years to come.

The Hope B-team has some good personnel according to the coaches, and are not about to give up. They should improve with experience.

Joe Ferguson is hospitalized

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — With Arkansas quarterback Joe Ferguson hospitalized, Razorback Coach Frank Broyles said Monday that the next two weeks will be "the most important of our season."

Broyles said Ferguson was suffering from influenza, but that he did not know how seriously ill his No. 1 quarterback was.

Ferguson also received a nose injury in Saturday night's 31-10 loss to Southern California. Broyles said X rays would be taken at the hospital to determine if the nose was broken.

"We've got to improve this week as if we were going to play a ballgame Saturday," Broyles said after Monday's workout.

The Porkers have an open date Saturday then take on Oklahoma State in Little Rock Sept. 23.

Broyles also said his first and second team fullbacks will be out of action for a week. Marsh White, who started Saturday's game, is suffering from a severely bruised hip, and Mike Saint, who played most of Saturday's game, reinjured a big toe.

Broyles said he was considering moving tailbacks Jon Richardson and Rolland Fuchs to fullback, and he said sophomore Jimmy Fryer, a fullback who had been moved to defensive end, will return to fullback.

In some shuffling following the opening-game loss, Broyles said that Ron Revard, who started at tackle against USC, will be moved to center, where he earned All-Southwest Conference honors as a sophomore last year. Broyles said sophomore Randy Drake, the No. 2 center, will be moved to offensive guard.

Bogan, Wynn tie for lead

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Steve Bogan of Covina, Calif., and Bob Wynn of Dayton, Ohio, fired 65s to tie for the lead among 49 golfers who qualified Monday in the opening of the Children's Hospital Greater St. Louis Golf Classic at Norwood Hills Country Club.

Wayne Morris of St. Louis and Vite Saputo of Springfield, Ill., qualified with 67s while threetime Missouri amateur champion Jim Hackson of St. Louis and Al Chandler of Columbia each shot 68s.

The only other Missouri pro to qualify Monday was Bob Stone of Independence, who was one of the 12 survivors among 17 golfers who tied with 70s and had to go into a playoff.

Professionals practice on the course today and a pro-am affair to be held Wednesday will include comedian Bob Hope among the contestants.

Gregor joins 76ers camp

SCRANTON, Pa. (AP) — Gary Gregor, 6-foot-7 forward who has played with three National Basketball Association clubs, has joined the training camp of the Philadelphia 76ers.

The 76ers said Gregor was unhappy with his contract with the Portland Trailblazers last year and played out his option to become a free agent.

Dist. 7AA standings

Even in defeat it seems the Ashdown Panthers never play a bad ball game but this past week they played one of their best and thrashed the Arkadelphia Badgers 27 to 7. For the past two seasons the Panthers had lost close games to the Badgers (last year 7-6) but made up for this frustration last Friday night. In the only other Div. 7AA conference action Malvern downed Crossett 21 to 3.

In non-league encounters Hope edged Prescott 8-0; Magnolia won handily 35-0 over Nashville, Camden took it on the chin from McGehee 14-14 and Fairview was edged 14-13 by Watson Chapel. The McGehee win was the first for the 8AA team over a 7AA team in four tries.

In league play Magnolia, Malvern, Hope, and Camden boast 1-0 records in early play. Overall on the season only Magnolia and Hope are unbeaten in two outings.

Action this week will feature two conference games. Arkadelphia plays at Hope, and Fairview plays at Ashdown. Other games send Camden to Pine Bluff, Dollarway, Crossett to Hamburg, and Magnolia will host Shreveport Parkview.

Magnolia continues to be the statistical leader in most departments. The Panthers have scored 58 points in two games. Hope has allowed only six points scored on them in two games. Magnolia is both the rushing leader and leader in defense against rushing. Crossett is the passing leader.

D. Johnson of Hope continues for the second week as the conference leader in scoring with 24 points. J. Ross of Malvern moved into second along with M. Glover of Camden and T. Thrash of Ashdown each with 18 points.

The first two field goals of the season were kicked this past week by R. Williams of Crossett and P. Bazar of Hope. Last year a total of five were booted by league teams.

Standings:

Team	Con	Season
Magnolia Pan.	1 0	2 0
Hope Bobcats	1 0	2 0
Malvern Leopards	1 0	1 1
Camden Panthers	1 0	1 1
Ashdown Panthers	1 1	1 1
Arkadelphia Bad.	0 1	1 1

"Everybody was calling up, said Bryant, here for a telephone briefing session with Big Eight Conference coaches. "You'd have thought my wife had died. I had expected somebody to come in anytime with a hot dish of food."

Bloodstained Olympic flame extinguished

MUNICH (AP) — Lord Killanin of Ireland took over today as the new president of the International Olympic Committee with a briefcase full of problems to be solved before the next Olympic Games in Montreal in 1976.

The Games of the XX Olympiad, bloodstained by murder and rocked by political strife, ended in Munich's Olympic Stadium Monday.

As the Olympic flame was extinguished and the Olympic flag came down, Avery Brundage stepped down too—after 20 years as IOC president.

Killanin and his committee now have to think about the Olympics of the future. One of their problems is the sheer growth of the games.

In the Munich Olympics about 8,000 athletes competed, attended by 2,000 coaches and team officials, and more than 4,000 journalists and photographers came from all parts of the world.

With the whole world watching on television, the games have become a platform on which political quarrels are aired and nationalist aims pursued.

For two weeks before the games began the black African countries fought to stop the Rhodesian team from competing.

In the end they succeeded.

That, the critics said, was the first big dent in the image of the Olympics, which had always striven to be free of political pressures.

Then, when the Olympics had been in progress for 10 days, the friendly atmosphere of Olympic village was shattered by the Arab guerrillas who broke in with submachine guns and held members of the Israeli team as hostages.

On that day 11 Israelis died—either murdered in their quarters in the village or shot down in the gun battle between the Arabs and German police at a nearby air base late in the evening.

Many believed the games would be abandoned. Some thought the Olympics might never start again.

But Brundage, speaking at a memorial service for the dead Israelis the next morning, announced the games "must go on."

With flags at half staff but the flame still burning in its cauldron in the stadium, the Olympics continued under a dark shadow.

When the shootings and the political wrangling had been left behind, the IOC stamped hard on athletes who were judged to have broken the Olympic code.

Vince Matthews and Wayne Collett, Americans who won the gold and silver medals, respectively, in the 400 meters, were banned from further Olympic competition for life because they turned their backs on the American flag during the medals ceremony.

All 11 members of the Pakistani field hockey squad were given a similar ban for failing to stand to attention for the West German national anthem. West Germany had upset Pakistan, the defending champions, 1-0, in the final.

Rick DeMont, 16-year-old American swimmer, was deprived of his gold medal in the 400 meters freestyle after failing a drugs test.

When it came down to the sports themselves the main talking point was the decline of the United States in the face of a growing challenge from the athletes of Europe.

Track and field events which Americans previously had dominated—the sprints, the pole vault and the discus throw—went this time to Eastern Europe.

The Americans even lost the basketball title—the sport they gave to the world. Russia beat the United States 51-50 in a dramatic final with bitter overtones. The Americans filed a protest and refused to accept the silver medals.

Jim Hodge:

Ferguson, 'A great leader'

By JIM HODGE

Arkansas Coach Frank Broyles: "If you're sitting in the stands, sometimes you won't see the ball leave his hand, he's so quick. He steps back and suddenly the ball is airborne. He has the quickest release I've ever seen. Joe's the perfectionist. He gets mad anytime he throws the ball above a receiver's shoulders or below his waist. And he doesn't do it often."

would be. I knew he was a great one."

Oklahoma State Athletic Director Floyd Gass: "I've never seen a player influence a team, or a game, the way Ferguson does. Ferguson's ability to run the option is what makes them so tough. He is so quick that when he gets the option going, then you are in trouble when he passes."

Texas Tech Coach Hoot Gibson: "Ferguson is strong, accurate and his quick release is fantastic. I don't know anybody to compare him with. He throws a 25-yard pass like most good passers throw a 10-yard pass. He drills it. Everybody has a weakness. Joe Namath has bad knees and chases girls. But Ferguson has good knees and is completely dedicated. He's gotta be rated as a super quarterback with the best anywhere."

as good a passer as has been in the league. He can throw on the run and he can drop back. And he's awfully hard to get to. Insofar as we're concerned, Ferguson is the best (in comparison to Roger Staubach of Navy who won the Heisman Trophy) I've ever faced. He can throw the football. He puts zip on the ball."

Arkansas Receiver Mike Repond: "He's always on the money. As a receiver, I would have to say there isn't a better passer in the nation. The ball is always where you can catch it. What Joe has is the ability to see what's going on downfield. On several instances I haven't been in the clear when I made my break, but Joe knew I would be after a couple of steps and he would lead me into the open area... we throw a lot of our passes on timing and Joe has the uncanny sense of knowing just an instant beforehand that you're getting ready to make the cut."

ARKANSAS STATE INDIANS WORK ON OFFENSIVE

JONESBORO, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas State Coach Bill Davidson pushed the Indians through a day of work on offensive execution Monday.

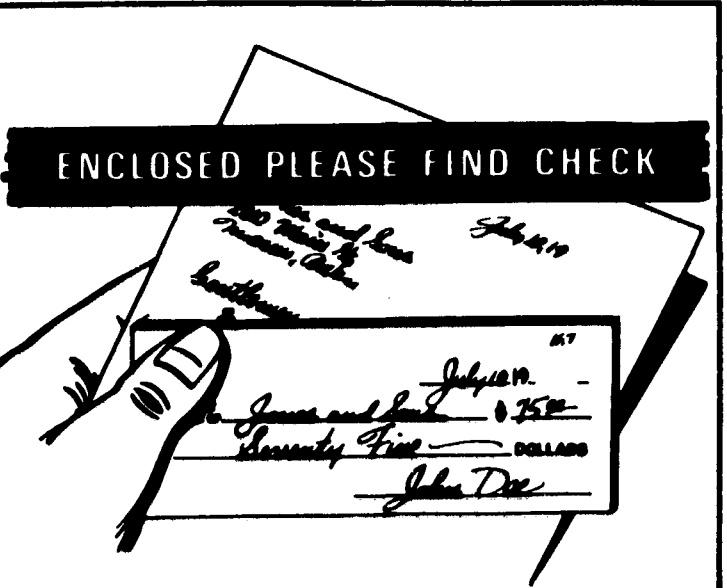

Davidson said the Tribe's execution was not as effective as it should have been in Saturday night's 27-17 loss to McNeese State.

After Monday's practice, Davidson said, "We did look a lot better today."

Davidson also said Saturday's game showed the Indians were not in as good physical condition as he thought, "and we plan to be ready this week."

Memphis can start busing soon

Revenue-sharing bill vote today

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis School Board voted in a marathon session Monday to adopt a busing timetable that would begin in January for elementary school students.

Supt. John P. Freeman recommended that the busing of nearly 14,000 city school pupils be implemented at the end of the first semester in January for grades 1-6 and in September 1973 for junior and senior high school students.

The board must submit the timetable to a federal court Tuesday.

The board said the plan, ordered in April by U.S. District Judge Robert M. McRae Jr. and affirmed Aug. 29 by an appeals court, could be placed in effect by late November or December. But the board said busing could not start without disruption of the schools before the end of the first semester in January.

The board also emphasized in a resolution that it is seeking a stay in the busing order from the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals at Cincinnati, Ohio. The board is planning an appeal of the McRae order.

Freeman told the school board he favored contracting with a private firm for the required busing rather than using the Memphis Transit Authority.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate approaches final passage of the $34.8 billion revenue-sharing bill today after its sponsors beat down efforts to increase aid to big, urban states.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield predicted final passage of the massive bill by late afternoon. It has been debated by the Senate six days.

The most bitter floor fights have centered on how the big pot of federal-tax revenues will be divided among the states.

The Senate Finance Committee came up with a formula generally increasing the rural and poorer states' share over the large, industrial states compared to the apportionment granted in the House version.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., made a final effort to change the committee's plan with a new method of distribution to aid the urbanized states. He lost on a 57-27 vote.

Under his amendment, $1.5 billion would have been added to the bill over the five-year period the program covers. Also, funds would have been distributed on the basis of the degree of urbanization of the states.

"The industrialized states are shortchanged under the committee bill," Javits declared. "The cities are where the problems are."

However, Sen. Russell B. Long, D-La., floor manager for the bill and Finance chairman, said:

"We voted to give more money to the poor states and less to the wealthy ones, and that certainly is justified."

In another important test, the Senate killed, 67 to 17, an amendment by Sen. Lawton Chiles, D-Fla., to eliminate a section of the bill putting a ceiling on social-services programs run by the states for welfare recipients and potential recipients.

The measure as approved by Finance would limit the programs to about $1.7 billion.

Long argued that major changes in the tax laws require far more consideration than could be given in Senate floor debate.

Court rules in favor of CIA secrecy oath

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — The 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has ruled that the Central Intelligence Agency has the right to impose a secrecy oath on its employees, but has limited the scope of the oath to classified matters.

The Monday decision involved in effort by a former CIA employee, Victor L. Marchetti, to remove himself from the oath so he can publish a book about the intelligence agency.

Marchetti resigned three years ago after working 14 years for the CIA, including a stint as executive assistant to the deputy director.

Last May, U. S. District Court Judge Albert V. Bryan Jr. of Alexandria granted the U. S. government an injunction barring Marchetti from publishing information about the CIA.

Basing his ruling on secrecy oaths signed by Marchetti when he joined the CIA and when he left, Bryan ruled Marchetti would have to submit any information about the CIA to the agency for approval.

The appeals court, in a 3-0 decision written by Chief Judge Clement F. Haynsworth Jr., upheld the lower court, saying the secrecy oaths are legal and constitutional contracts. The appeals court remanded the case to the district court with directions to confine the limitations of the restraining order to classified information and to allow Marchetti a chance to pursue further legal action.

Bank secrecy Act is blasted

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A three-judge federal panel has ruled that part of the new Bank Secrecy Act is "an unreasonable invasion of privacy" and therefore unconstitutional in requiring banks to report the domestic transactions of customers.

The court in a 2 to 1 decision issued a temporary injunction Monday against the reporting practice. But it ordered banks to continue to keep microfilmed records of all checks and deposits and continue to report foreign transactions to the U.S. Treasury.

Andrew J. Shepard, president of the 150-member California Bankers Association, indicated his group would continue to seek elimination of microfilm records of all domestic deposits and checks.

As for the act's foreign provisions, Shepard said, "We agree that measures are necessary to eliminate the illegal flow of funds overseas."

But he said his group feels that the court, in throwing out domestic reporting requirements, has "upheld the traditional confidential relationships between banks and their customers."

"We regard it as a significant but partial victory," said American Civil Liberties Union attorney Charles Marsden.

Marsden said he expects the government to appeal the decision, in which case the ACLU would file cross appeals. "We will ask that the injunction be broadened to outlaw the other two provisions of the act," Marsden said, referring to the reporting of foreign transactions and the keeping of microfilm records of all deposits and checks.

He also said the ACLU will ask that the injunction be made permanent.

The order was handed down by U.S. District Court Judge William T. Sweigert of San Francisco and William East of Portland, Ore., who composed the majority, and Justice Oliver D. Hamlin of the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, who wrote the dissent.

The ACLU had brought suit last June 7, followed by the CBA on June 22. On June 30, only one day before the act would have gone into full effect, Sweigert temporarily restrained its reporting function while the case was being argued and decided. He did not halt the provision that banks microfilm all checks and deposits.

Business Mirror

NEW YORK (AP) — Many an old Boston fortune has been preserved over the decades by researching a fundamentally strong company, investing in it, and then putting the securities away in a vault.

There lay the certificates untouched, radiating dividends over the years, reproducing themselves through stock splits from time to time, thus keeping the family and its bankers and lawyers fed and content.

In recent years, however, that philosophy came into disrepute. In many instances bad securities were vaulted away with the good, and so the returns often were found to be less than they would have been with an occasional dusting.

In the past 20 years especially, the performance craze spread through the market, enveloping the portfolios not only of individual investors but of trusts, pensions, mutual funds and other institutions. In-out trading was the fad.

Now performance seems to have had its day. As anyone who casually follows the market knows, many of the institutional and private investors who amassed fortunes by turning over the portfolios 100 per cent in a year are broke. And they went broke blindly following the quick trade creed.

And so we have a reiteration of that old Boston philosophy by the Boston Consulting Group, which is a management consulting organization within the multibillion Boston Corp., which is a descendant of Boston Safe Deposit and Trust.

Says Bruce Henderson, BCG president, "The stock trader can rarely win. The long-term investor can." No equivocation, no asterisks, no broad exceptions. But the reasons have changed some over the years.

"Tax laws and inflation combine against the trader. He loses too much capital in taxes," he says. "Investing becomes a house game in which the odds are stacked against him as they are at the race track or the casino."

Each time the trader sells at a profit he pays a tax, to say nothing of a broker's fee. But the long-term investor not only pays taxes at a lower rate but he pays only once instead of two or three times over the same time span.

If securities are traded rather than held, says Henderson, the income tax removes capital that otherwise should be compounding.

The combination of taxes and inflation, he states, sometimes cancels out what appear at the time to be profits. Of course, securities held in the vault are hurt by inflation too — but not by taxes or broker's fees.

Woman rescued after 5 days pinned under car

GUELPH, Ont. (AP) — A woman who was pinned under a wrecked car for five days while the bodies of her husband and two friends lay nearby is recovering in a Guelph hospital.

Denise Sprayson, of Maxwell, Ont., was found Sunday. Dr. G. L. Stewart, the coroner in the case, said he didn't understand how she survived.

"Mrs. Sprayson's wounds were loaded with crawling things," he reported. "Her discomfort must have been beyond imagination. She survived an ordeal which not many people could have."

Mrs. Sprayson endured rain,

80-degree temperatures and chilly nights. Police said her head was near enough to a pool of water that she may have been able to drink. One leg and some ribs were broken and her skull may have been fractured.

Police said the car failed to negotiate a curve Wednesday near Durham, Ont., shot through the air and rolled down a 16-foot embankment.

Mrs. Sprayson was discovered by Paul Smell of Rexdale, Ont., who was driving by and stopped to walk his dog. The dog found the woman. Smell tried to help her, then ran to a farmhouse half a mile away and called the police.

Dr. Lawrence E. Lamb

Treatment for heart murmers

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—My husband is 73 years old and has a heart murmur which he has had for many years. Most doctors have made light of it, but the last doctor he saw gave him digitalis tablets and the doctor said his heart was sluggish. Is there an exercise to strengthen his heart muscle? He also has to take a Hydrodiuril pill once a day. He was X-rayed and they found the bladder was holding water. What causes this? Is the Hydrodiuril pill for the bladder? I'd appreciate your explaining this and would like to know the best thing to do and if there is a cure for the heart murmur through exercise.

Dear Reader—Heart murmurs can mean a number of different things. They can be innocent findings in a young child, or they can be an indication of disease of valves in the heart or other evidence of heart disease. Whether or not the murmur is important the older a person gets in our society it is common for there to be fatty changes or atherosclerosis in the arteries to the heart muscle.

If this condition or other defects of the heart cause the heart muscle to become weakened, then the individual has what we call heart failure. Expressed simply, this means that the heart muscle is too weak to do an efficient job of pumping the blood. When this occurs the body tends to retain salt and with the salt, the body retains water.

It's a common and very good treatment in most of these conditions, to give the patient digitalis. This heart medicine stimulates the heart muscle to contract more efficiently and helps the heart to improve its ability in pumping blood. When it does this successfully, the improved circulation mobilizes the excess fluid and salt and they are eliminated by the kidney.

Sometimes to help the elimination of the excess salt and water, the patient will take a water pill or Hydrodiuril to help. The purpose of this pill is strictly limited to helping the person get rid of the excess salt and the water. It has nothing to do with the bladder.

It is very important that a person who is taking any of the digitalis medicines and a water pill for heart problems continue to take them exactly as he has been told to do. Usually the individual needs to take the digitalis for life. It is dangerous to stop taking such medicines without the specific approval of your doctor.

Although exercise is wonderful for preventing heart disease and preventing heart attacks, it has absolutely no use whatever in the treatment of heart failure and can even be harmful. The heart fails because the muscle is already overloaded or worked beyond its capacity. The heart's capacity has been limited because the disease is already present. Exercise requires the heart to work harder and when the heart is already unable to pump enough blood for resting circumstances it only makes matters worse. Most doctors tell individuals with heart failure to limit their activity.

The retention of urine in the bladder is most likely related to an obstruction to the outflow of the bladder caused by an enlarged prostate gland.

Hearing is postponed

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The hearing on a suit seeking to prevent certification of the American party presidential ticket for the Arkansas general election was postponed Monday and rescheduled for this afternoon.

Circuit Court Judge Warren Wood postponed the hearing because of a conflict with another trial Wood was conducting.

The suit seeks an injunction to prevent Secretary of State Kelly Bryant from placing the names of the American party nominees on the ballot.

Thomas Glaze, attorney for the plaintiffs, has alleged irregularities in the petitions circulated by American party officials in Arkansas to comply with state law and reserve the ballot position. Glaze has said the petitions contain more than 10,000 fraudulent signatures.

The American party plans to seek Wood's permission to intervene in the suit. Dana Davis of West Memphis appeared Monday in Wood's court to represent the American party.

YOUTH IS DROWNED

MOUNTAIN HOME, Ark., (AP) — State Police said that Jerome Shafterfield, 14, of Gilmer, Tex., was found drowned Sunday in a swimming hole in the Buffalo River State Park.

State Police said the youth was with a group called NETT from a boys' home in Texas that was camping in the park. State Police said the youth wandered away from the campsite about 4:30 p.m. Saturday and that his body was found Sunday morning.

project held to finance scholarships totaling $550.00 which it gives annually to Hope High School graduates. This year's spaghetti supper will be from 5 to 7 p.m. Friday at the high school cafeteria. Tickets are $1.50 for adults and 75 cents for children.

Deadline for newsman extended

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A state Senate committee talked of sending a Memphis newsman to jail Monday but wound up giving him until Nov. 13 to answer its questions.

This took place as the Senate Committee on General Welfare and Environment continued hearings on allegations of child abuse at the Arlington Hospital and School for the Retarded.

Commerce Appeal reporter Joseph A. Weiler was called before the committee for a second time and for a second time he refused to tell the senators who supplied him information about child abuse at Arlington.

This time Weiler was flanked by a lawyer for the newspaper and its top editors.

Sen. Edgar Gillock, D-Memphis, counsel for the committee, told Weiler and lawyer Armistead Clay several times that the committee wanted the names of Weiler's sources.

Sen. Edgar Gillock, D-Memphis, counsel for the committee, told Weiler and lawyer Armistead Clay several times that the committee wanted the names of Weiler's sources.

Each time, Clay responded, "Mr. Weiler, with all due respect to the committee, refused," or like answers.

In another development Monday, the committee heard testimony from Dorothy Z. Smithson, who worked at the hospital for four years until she resigned in March.

She lent weight to statements by Joe Pennington, a newsman for WREC radio, who revealed to the committee in closed testimony last week that a hospital secretary, Geraldine Blood, supplied him some information about Arlington.

The committee voted 5-1 Saturday to seek perjury action against either Pennington or

Mrs. Blood, who had denied she gave any materials to the newsman.

Testimony continues despite death of witness

MARION, Ark. (AP) — Testimony was to continue in Circuit Court here today in the first-degree murder trial of Jerry E. Austin, 23, of West Memphis despite the death Monday of one of the state's witnesses.

Austin is charged in the fatal shooting June 14, 1971, of Mack C. Howell, 42, of West Memphis.

The witness who died was Clarence Lard of Waterloo, Ala. He died shortly after checking into the West Lane Motel at Marion. Officials said it appeared Lard died of a heart attack. He was expected to testify about the sale of a .22-caliber pistol to Austin.

One man already has been convicted of first-degree murder in the death of Howell, who lived next door to Austin.

Howell's body, which bore five shots from a .22-caliber weapon, was found in an alfalfa field several hundred yards from his house.

In testimony Monday, Howell's wife said that about 3:30 a.m. on June 14 she answered a knock at the door of the house. She said one man was standing on the porch and another was standing in the yard. She said the one on the porch asked if he could see her husband.

Howell, apparently awakened by the noise, came to the door and Mrs. Howell went to the back of the house, she said. She said that as she returned she heard one of the men telling Howell, "Let's step around the corner."

Later, she said, she went outside and looked around, but could not find her husband. She said she telephoned from a bedroom in her house to tell a neighbor what had happened.

Medical care system called confused disaster area by congressional group

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee, trying to speed a $255-million program for the aid of accident victims, says America's emergency-medical-care system is a confused disaster area.

"Hairdressers are almost universally licensed," says Rep.

Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., chairman of the House public health subcommittee, "but ambulance operators, drivers and attendants often meet no other requirements than having a chauffeur's license or minimal first-aid training."

More than 100,000 Americans per year "die unnecessarily ... because of deficiencies in medical-emergency services," Rogers says, yet there is a lack of federal priority for efforts to "close the gap of time which now separates victims from adequate medical treatment."

The House is due to vote soon on the Rogers subcommittee's plan to upgrade the nation's system of emergency medical care.

The Nixon administration argued against the legislation, saying current federal programs offer a responsible U.S. role "in support of activities which properly are the primary responsibility of state and local governments."

The comprehensive program includes the award of $8 million in contracts for projects in five areas of the nation.

But the committee-approved legislation would boost authority for federal help, step up planning and coordination, spur development of emergency programs within communities, and create a grant system for research and training.

While more than 90 per cent of acute-care hospitals maintain emergency rooms to comply with national hospital standards, the committee said, "only 10 per cent of these are equipped to handle all medical and surgical emergencies ... and only 17 per cent of these hospitals have 24-hour physician staffing.
